SUBMIT YOUR TEAM QUESTIONS

New this year, competing schools have the opportunity to submit questions for use in the competition. Tournament organizers work each year to rewrite questions and add new ones to keep the content fresh. However, the underlying concepts and content the Challenge supports, largely remains unchanged. The goal of the competition is to encourage knowledge in: (1) the fundamental workings of an economy; (2) reinforce personal finance skills and knowledge in areas such as budgeting, credit, banking, insurance, and taxes; and (3) create awareness of consumer issues such as renter rights, identity theft, and federal protections like the Truth in Lending Act. As a coach, you have the opportunity to submit five questions for the competition. They must be multiple choice, with four choices, and they must be from the three main content areas. As we pull together questions for this year's competition, your questions will be considered. You will be informed if we use any of your questions. Those questions would be placed into the large question pool and "seeded" into one of the rounds. Who knows? Your team could receive one of the questions you submit!

Below are the question areas. You are allowed to submit two questions in economics, two in personal finance, and one in consumer affairs. Questions must be submitted by April 1, however, the earlier your questions are received the better. If teams submit duplicate content-area questions, we will select the one we received first. (i.e. two questions both asking what compound interest is, etc.)

You may submit your questions on a separate piece of paper.
