

Lily Learns About Wants and Needs

by Lisa Bullard

Lily Learns about Wants and Needs is written by Lisa Bullard and is illustrated by Christine M. Schneider. Copyright 2014. Published by Millbrook Press, a division of Lerner Publishing Group.

Publisher Book Description:

Lily wants a new bike. And a new raincoat. And ice cream. But how many of these things does she need? As Lily and her dad drive around town, Lily soon discovers that wants and needs are different things. She picks out which things people have to have. She might even remind her dad that he doesn't need root beer!

About the Author

Lisa Bullard is the author of Get Started in Writing for Children (McGraw-Hill, 2014), a how-to guide for adult writers that draws on Lisa's longtime background as a children's book writer, writing teacher, and publishing professional. Lisa's books for children include the middle grade mystery Turn Left at the Cow (Harcourt, 2013), and the picture books Not Enough Beds!; You Can Write a Story: A Story-Writing Recipe for Kids; and Trick-or-Treat on Milton Street, which won an International Reading Association / Children's Book Council "Children's Choice Award," a National Parenting Publications "Children's Resources Silver Award," and was named an honor title for the "Storytelling World Award." Lisa has also won two "Teacher's Choice Awards" and a listing on Science Books & Films' "Best Books" list for her nonfiction books for young readers. Along with writing her own books, Lisa teaches writing to children and adults through venues such as the Loft Literary Center. She lives in Minneapolis, Minnesota.

About the Illustrator

Christine M. Schneider grew up in Colorado and graduated with a BFA in Illustration from the University of Kansas. Christy owns Yellow Pencil Studio, Inc., an illustration and design studio in Lawrence, Kansas. Along with books for kids, Christy illustrates and designs for a variety of clients. She also art directs Family Practice Management, a business journal for doctors published by the American Academy of Family Physicians. She lives in Lawrence, a smallish college town in the northeast corner of Kansas, with her husband, daughter and two kitties.

